Travel Grants are Open for Young Clinicians to Attend the October 2016 A-T Clinical Research Conference in Warsaw, Poland

To encourage talented young clinicians to focus on ataxia-telangiectasia, a childhood neurodegenerative disease, the U.S.-based A-T Children's Project has established a program to award up to five travel grants that will enable recipients to attend the upcoming international Ataxia-Telangiectasia Clinical Research Conference (a-t2016.com) to be held in Warsaw, Poland from October 6 to 8, 2016.

The grants will reimburse travel and/or hotel expenses related to attending the conference, including coach/economy airline tickets up to:

- $500 for clinicians from Europe
- $1,000 for clinicians outside of Europe

Criteria:

- Must have an MD or PhD (or the equivalent)
- Must be treating or interested in treating patients with ataxia-telangiectasia
- Must be age 40 or under

Interested candidates, please submit the following to grants@atcp.org by July 31, 2016:

- Cover letter explaining interest in ataxia-telangiectasia
- A current CV

Successful award recipients will be notified by email no later than August 15, 2016.
